

i see no point in a longing to return home when everything has moved on like a storm flashing with lightning and a dry riverbed overcome by a wild flood.
there is only the unfamiliar that happens again.

longing to return home.
wf.h.
2018