

it is inescapable... wealth likes life on the upper floor of the hotel considering this as the proper order of things with the balcony that has a view that is theirs...

until there is a fire.

none of them considers that the poor know what to do with matches or how to use them

until they do.

after all what can be done with broken champagne glasses.

the rebuilt hotel always changes its name without changing its meaning.

the rebuilt hotel always changes its name.
