

i sit in a small room and finally open the only window... then i open the universe.
the view never changes...
spiritual beings drinking in a rowdy place where the truth is never there for very long.
sometimes you just get lucky choosing the right room.

the right room.
wf.h.
2019