

as you try to convince me it is all neurons and if you move some here rather than there... you have god and if you add a few more there but only in the right direction you have a pope and just a few more in the opposite direction you have a luther.

well my friend i have learned they are juggled by jugglers who juggle things on fire and just like the ones who throw dice and move stars and follow animal tracks they eventually retire in a house that has no exterior walls.

the science of jugglers.
