

no one rings the bell of a broken religion except those that hold a grudge like a heartless fresco in a deserted place and believe that the sound still carries the calling.
i suspect that there is an unwritten law that the last animal in an extinction will still return to its breeding ground...

the sighting.
wf.h.
2018