

men living in darkness finally produced fire sending embers like illuminated prayers into the night air explaining a new universe another way.

fixed or expanding or collapsing
each time from a different point in space not really sure beyond a conviction.

another drink and i suggest that it is all three of these views vibrating like the hormones in the body of a woman.

each and every heavenly or organic fire eventually goes out but hormones are the trade beads of nature that are traded even in the dark.
the intoxication overwhelms me and i always stumble trying to move to her table.
the spiritually definitive has too many steps for reason.

the spiritually definitive.
