

we are within the of something... time surrendered at both ends.
the no source of existence not defined by its opposite.

god becomes a letting go of the hand of god without separation.

living the actuals within potentials.

hanging names on the images of the temporary.

this that we are living in is an introduction.

the things around us are not things but mysteries.

what is wrath.

what is mercy.

where is the place of divinity.

where is the place that divinity hides.

consciousness seeks unity but denies it to exist.

revelation tries to stand in for darkness in the revelation of darkness.

wanting an answer is to stop the question.

these days i am living in the small thing of life...

participating in the light avoiding the philosophies of unnecessary violence planting fruit trees with my wife.

these days.
